Historical Virginia

THE early colonial charters of Virginia describe her boundaries as including all of the territory lying between what is now the boundary line between Virginia and North Carolina, extending to the Dutch settlements in New York and from the Atlantic Ocean to the South Seas. For one hundred years after the colonization of Virginia which started at Jamestown in 1607, the settlers were confined to the Piedmont section, east of the Appalachians. Many of the early settlers thought that the mountains were impassable but in 1716 Alexander Spottswood with his Knights of the Golden Horseshoe crossed over into the Shenandoah Valley. All the territory west of the Blue Ridge Mountains extending to the Mississippi River was included in the county of Augusta, Virginia; four states and several hundred counties have been carved out of this original tract. Washington County in which Bristol, Virginia, is located, was set up as an independent county in the year 1776. In 1748-1750 Dr. Thomas Walker and a party of surveyors explored the Holston Valley and passed through Cumberland Gap into Kentucky. After the close of the French and Indian War the country was rapidly settled. The pioneers, most of whom were of Scotch-Irish descent, took an important part in the Revolutionary War and won the battle of Kings Mountain, which was the turning point in the war for freedom. These same frontiersmen also took part in many Indian battles and raids and furnished a quota of men for the George Rogers Clark Expedition, which captured Vincennes and won the northwest territory for the Colonies. Practically all of the territory south of the Ohio Valley was settled by immigrants who passed through the Holston Valley, which was the only water level route through the Appalachian Mountains.

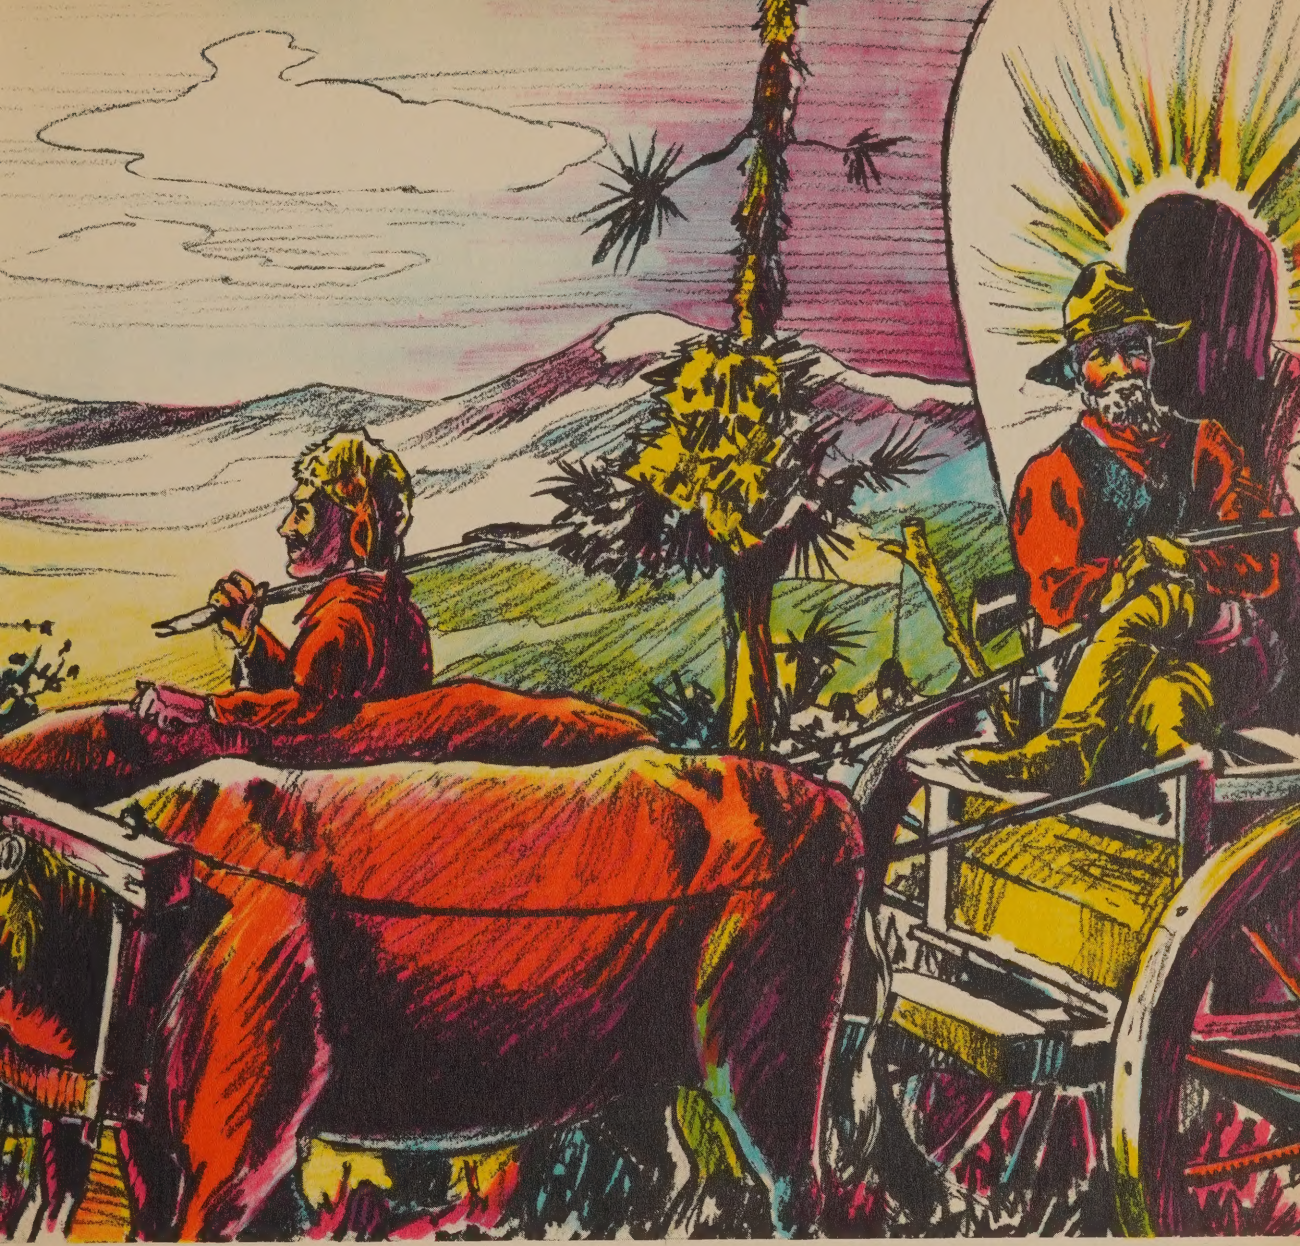
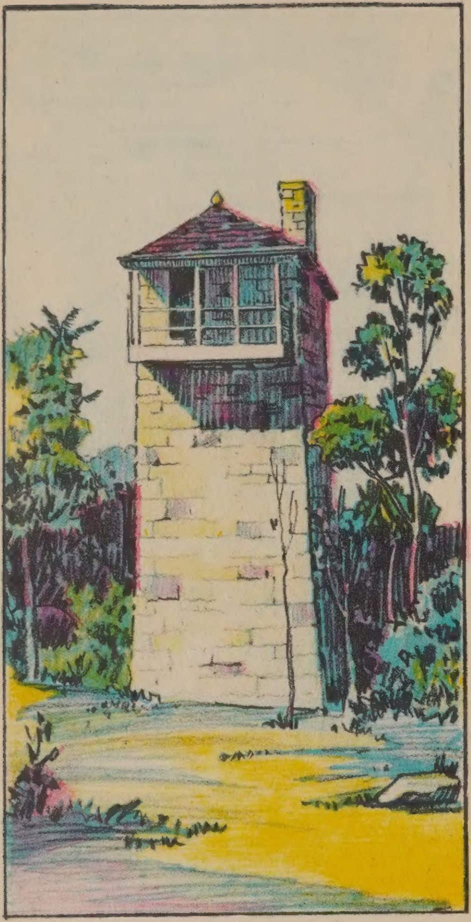
Theme



THE 1937 INTERMONT depicts American life from the early settlers through the Revolutionary War period with authentic illustrations and historical facts.

The Staff has endeavored to present a vivid picture of the Pioneers, whose sturdy characters were the foundation of the Republic.



MANY legends have grown up around the "Old Shot Tower" which stands like a sentinel overlooking New River at Jackson's Ferry. The Shot Tower was built shortly after the Revolutionary War by Stephen Jackson to manufacture shot from lead which was mined at Austinville, only a few miles up the Valley. It is very picturesque and one of the few shot towers of frontier days that remains standing.

Governor William Byrd, III

FINCASTLE County, Virginia, was cut off from Augusta County in 1772 and Fort Chiswell was the Capital of the County for a short time. In 1759 the Governor of Virginia directed Colonel William Byrd to lead a body of six hundred men to the relief of Fort Louden on the Tennessee River. The expedition had to cut a road from Williamsburg, Virginia, to Kingsport, Tennessee, through the wilderness; the army proceeded to the lead mines in Wythe County for a supply of lead and built a fort about eight miles west of Wytheville on the present Lee Highway. This fortification was called Fort Chiswell and was erected for the protection of the lead mines. More than a year's time elapsed since the expedition started and in August, 1760, Fort Louden surrendered to the Cherokee Indians and the expedition came to naught. At Fort Chiswell was drawn up and signed the first Declaration foreshadowing American Independence.

Our President

DR. H. G. NOFFSINGER

Ninth president, he has served the college efficiently and capably for twenty-four years. As president of the American Association of Junior Colleges, the Virginia Association of Colleges, and a member of important commissions of the Southern Association, he has been active in educational circles. The University of Richmond has recently conferred on him their first Doctor of Letters degree, and King College, the Doctor of Laws.

Officers of

MRS. DORA HALL MURRELL

Dean of Women

Serving her thirtieth year in her present position, she touches the lives of students more closely than any other member of the faculty or staff. A prodigious worker, she may be found in her office from early morning until late at night. Always she appears fresh, efficient, fair and square, and always ready and glad to help us with our many little problems. We, the members of the staff, salute the first lady of Intermont.

ROY C. BROWN

Vice-President

Active in many phases of school work, Mr. Brown contacts most all V. I. girls through his famous English classes. During his fourteen years at Intermont he has developed the most amazing Debate teams, and his girls have won contest after contest across the breadth of the United States. He is our publicity expert, keeping the school in the limelight at all times. A real sportsman, whenever he is away from his desk, he can usually be found with his dogs at field trials or hunting. We could not fail to add that he caught, this session, the largest bass ever taken in this part of the country.

Administration

MARGUERITE PFLUG

Dean of the Faculty

Everyone at Intermont admires and respects Miss Pflug. During her twenty years here she has built up a reputation as an expert linguist, lover of nature, academic adviser, and horsewoman. Her profound intellectual understanding astounds us. We would not dare go to her class without having studied our lessons diligently. We like to go with her on rides, hikes, or to visit in her beautiful log cabin out at the Ranch Camp.

●

H. G. NOFFSINGER, Jr.

Business Manager

Four years ago, Mr. Noffsinger came to the school direct from one of the largest advertising firms in the United States. This experience and his training at the Harvard Business School give him a background and a practical experience which has been of immense value to the college. During this brief service he has inaugurated many policies and systems connected with the financial, social, and academic life of the college. As adviser of the annual his hobby of photography is of great service. When away from duty, he can usually be found on the golf course or tennis courts.

General Isaac Shelby

EVAN SHELBY was born in Wales and early in life emigrated to Maryland. He was a scout with General Braddock. In 1771 he removed to the Holston. He built a Fort and established a store on the hill a short distance in the rear of the present Federal Post Office in Bristol, Tennessee.

ISAAC SHELBY, the son of Colonel Evan, removed to this section with his father and was very active in Indian Warfare. He was Captain of a Company at the battle of Point Pleasant, Ohio, and in command of a Company at the battle of Kings Mountain. He was elected first Governor of Kentucky from 1792-96 and served again in that capacity from 1812-1815. He refused the portfolio of war under President James Monroe and died at his home in Kentucky in 1826.

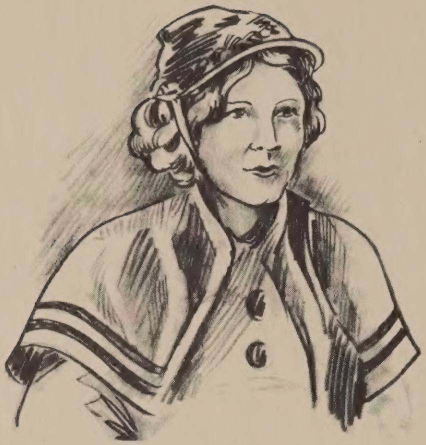
Book Three
FEATURES



Elizabeth Henry Campbell Russell
(SISTER OF PATRICK HENRY)

HISTORY recounts much of the bravery and heroism of the hardy pioneers who settled Southwestern Virginia and Eastern Tennessee. However, the courage of these men and their families did not outdistance the social activities of their immediate descendants. From Revolutionary times up to the Civil War, the charm and culture of the people of this section was widely known. Wolf's Hills, now known as the adjacent city of Abingdon, was the home of three governors of Virginia who lived within sight of one another at the same time.

"Mary's Meadows" was the beautiful home of Wyndam Robertson, Governor in 1833. Following Robertson, his neighbor, David Campbell, was elected governor in 1837. Then, in 1849 John Floyd became the third governor which Abingdon furnished Virginia. His charming home later became the first building of Stonewall Jackson College.

In these spacious homes with their great ballrooms, beautiful furnishings and many slaves, guests were lavishly entertained. They formed the background for the gay balls and social life of these country gentlemen who lived "over the mountains" from their kinsmen in Eastern Virginia.

Governor Sevier

JOHN SEVIER was born in 1745 in Augusta County and was of Huguenot descent. On the invitation of General Evan Shelby he visited the Holston country in 1772 and decided to locate there. He settled on the Nolichucky River near Jonesboro, Tennessee. He commanded a Company at the battle of Kings Mountain in 1780; engaged in thirty-five battles with the Indian tribes and never suffered a defeat. Theodore Roosevelt ranks him as first of all the Indian fighters of the west. He was the idol of the people of his day and was elected Governor of the State of Franklin in 1785; he was also elected first Governor of the State of Tennessee in 1796 and served for six terms. He defeated Andrew Jackson in four elections and they were political enemies for many years.

CATHERINE SHERRILL, "Bonny Kate," came to the Watauga settlement with her father about 1772. In June, 1776, the Watauga Fort was attacked by the Cherokee Indians. Catherine Sherill, with some other women, was outside of the Fort at the time it was attacked. Swift of foot, she fled to the Fort, scaled the palisades and leaped into the arms of Captain John Sevier, this being the first time she ever saw him. It was a case of love at first sight—a frontier romance that resulted in their marriage in 1780. Catherine was a woman of strong character and did much to sustain her husband throughout his very active military and civil life.

Student Government

THEY make us keep the rules of the school, they give us little yellow slips which keep us on campus, they don't let us smoke, they make us put our lights out at ten-thirty, they give us reprimands when we run our radios after lights, they think they can make us study! These, the members of our student government represent law and order in our college community where we live, eat and sleep under the same high slate roofs. They have been fair and square, administering justice impartially. We, the students, elected them to their positions of honor and we admire and respect each member of the executive board.

The Intermont

MINDFUL of the heritage which has been handed down to us by former students at Virginia Intermont who have published fifty-two annuals prior to this one, it was with a sense of awe that we assumed responsibility for this, the fifty-third issue. We trust that in some small measure we have lived up to our heritage. For the splendid cooperation of the administration, the faculty and the student body we are deeply grateful, and we trust that the book will find favor with everyone connected with the college.

The Virginia Intermont Cauldron

THE CAULDRON, College newspaper; "Boiling Pot" of current campus happenings, past events, and events to come, has meant much to every girl in school this year. Without its announcements we would have missed many of the good things; without its accurate record of events, much would be lost in the lore of the year; without its training to those who worked on the staff, a useful phase of extra-curricular activity would have been missing. The Cauldron staff has done a good job this year. We of the Annual staff feel that it has reached a high mark in the many years of its existence.

Debate Club

The record of Intermont's debating and forensic teams which have won national recognition through Phi Rho Pi is impressive. The mere listing of these honors takes so much space that we cannot go into the details we should like.

The college has the Virginia Alpha chapter of Phi Rho Pi. Last season Intermont teams won Junior College championship in both men's and women's debate for South Atlantic states; extempore championship for women, third place each in national oratory and extempore contests, and went to semi-finals in the National Debate Tourney.

Peggy Dunn was elected national student representative of Phi Rho Pi at Kansas Convention in Spring, first girl ever to be elected to this office. She is also student representative for the South Atlantic Division.

Virginia Intermont teams participated in 60 or more debates last season. They won 27 of 35 decision contests.

At the Strawberry Leaf Tournament at Winthrop College in Rock Hill during this fall Peggy Dunn won the Dixie Oratory, championship in After-Dinner Speaking, first in Women's Debate, and second in Best-Debater's Contest.

Louise Webb placed third in Women's Debate and Extempore Speech Contests at the Strawberry Leaf Tournament.

Barbara Gamble won first place in Poetry Reading and Annabel Miller placed second at Rock Hill in the same tournament.

HERE ARE A FEW QUICK FACTS YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT INTERMONT:

1. Founded 1884 at Glade Spring, Va.
2. Moved to Bristol, Va., 1892.
3. Originally chartered and granted degrees as a four-year institution.
4. Became a Junior College in 1912.
5. Charter member of American Association of Junior Colleges—there are now approximately 500 Junior Colleges in United States.
6. One of the first two Junior Colleges to attain membership in the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. This was in 1925. Ward Belmont was the other school and it came into the association at the same time.
7. Virginia Intermont now accredited by the University of the State of New York. (This is the famed Regents Board.)
8. The school has no debt and no interest to pay on a mortgage, or dividends to stock or bondholders. It has not had a cent of debt in twenty years.
9. Assets of the school are over a million dollars.
10. The school is endowed and the funds ($170,000.00) conservatively invested.
11. Most of the supplies for the college tables come from the school's own model dairy and farm of over a thousand acres.
12. During the unique history of the school there has never been a year in which a deficit was shown by the auditor's report.
13. There are 400 students from 30 states enrolled this session.
14. There are 40 members of the faculty and staff.
15. Over a thousand meals are served each day in the dining-hall. Students drink 35 gallons of milk a day, eat over a thousand pounds of meat a week.
16. Eleven members of the staff have served a total of 226 years.
17. For all these reasons, rates are low—$460 to $560 for board, room, literary tuition.
